EARTHQUAKES, fortunately not violent, but sufficient with high winds to shake down a number of houses, now complicate the flood situation. Menace of disease among human beings and cattle makes things worse, and the crest of the great flood, a dozen Niagara rolled into one, is in the last part of its devastating journey.

It is, unfortunately, not certain that the worst of the trouble is past. But it is certain that any money necessary should be spent to make another such calamity impossible. That requires aid, outlets or storage, and is not beyond human power.

WIDOW SOBS AS LAWYER CHARGES SHE 'LURED ON POOR GRAY TO MURDER'

Long Island City, N. Y., May 9.—The Snyder murder case went to the jury late today.

Long Island City, N. Y., May 9. (A.P.)—Attorney William Millard, counsel for Henry Judd Gray, charged in court at the close of the Snyder murder trial today that Mrs. Ruth Snyder had planned to poison Gray on the same night her husband was murdered.

Only Gray's steady drinking of whiskey, the lawyer said, saved him. He insisted that Gray never struck Albert Snyder, the slain man, with the ashtray on the fatal night.

"He struck at him, but missed," Millard asked for a manslaughter verdict.

"The lawyer said, 'and the blows that Snyder were all delivered by a woman, Mrs. Ruth Snyder.' Please Turn to Page 2, Column 1.

61 PROFESSORS OF LAW ASK SACCO REVIEW

Governor Fuller today received a petition urging review of the Sacco-Vanzetti case signed by 61 professors and assistant professors of the law schools of Columbia University, Yale, University of Kansas, Cornell, Indiana, Ohio State, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

From Professor Alexander Meiklejohn, former president of the American Bar Association and now at the University of Wisconsin, and from President Glenn Frank of Wisconsin the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee received letters which were forwarded to the Governor.

Shackled Souls by ELEANOR MIEHNER

The Boston Evening American today begins the publication of a new serial by Eleanor Miehner, who wrote "Chickie," the sensation of a recent literary season.

Those who have read this story critically declare it to be better than "Chickie." It is a daring, soul-stirring revelation of the emotions of a girl who demanded that life pay her its fullest price.

Living in Milton and earning her livelihood in the Kilby street insurance district of Boston, there is a great home floor to this story.

Begin it here and now.

CHAPTER I

THEY stared through a window into the dance hall at Gloucester. As they looked they exchanged rapid comments, their voices husky with excitement, especially the girl's. In the shadow her face shone with a beautiful eagerness.

They edged closer, their cheeks touching. An odd, provocative pair—a girl of 18 and boy of 9.

Suddenly the girl caught her companion in a quick, vigorous hug: "Jackie, look up! A million stars. Count them. Count every blessed one!"

His eyes obediently searched the Milky Way; the girl seized a long, lingering glance at the dancers moving in a dreamy rhythm.

She found what she sought—a tall, clean-limbed youth with a mop of fine black curls and lips merrily parted. How winsome this made his eyes! What was he saying to his partner? What does a man say that makes a girl's cheek turn pink with pleasure? The pecker at the knothole drew a long wist-

NUNGESSER NEAR BOSTON, SAYS NAVY

The Nungesser-Coli trans-Atlantic plane passed the Isle of Shoals off Portsmouth, N. H., at 4:03 p. m., according to the Naval Communications office at Boston. Planes from the Boston Airport immediately rose from East Boston to go and meet the Paris-to-New York flyers. Portsmouth is approximately 50 miles northeast of Boston in an air line, which would bring the aviators over the Hub in half an hour.

By the Associated Press
The Nungesser plane "White Bird" was sighted off Cape Race, Newfoundland, at 10 o'clock today, was the succinct word received today by the New York Times from its correspondent at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

DE PINEDO IS FORCED DOWN IN HEAVY FOG

Norfolk, Va., May 9. (A.P.)—Commander Francesco De Pinedo, Italian flyer, who left Boston early today for Philadelphia, was forced down by the heavy fog that enveloped Long Island Sound off Barren shortly before noon. His plane, the "Clematis," was towed into the harbor at Milton Field, Staten Island, for repairs.

Without plans or ceremony, Commander De Pinedo, who received ovation after ovation during his Sunday visit here, hopped off for Philadelphia today from Squam.

Snyder's Sister Hears Pleas

MRS. MAE THAKE, MRS. LOUIS MULHAUSER
Mrs. Thake told newspapermen that Warren Schneider, who collapsed in court when he heard Gray describe the slaying of their brother, Albert Snyder, was improving. Mrs. Mulhauser was first at the home after the slaying.

RUTH IS FLAYED AS 'SERPENT WOMAN' IN SNYDER CASE

When Millard's address was furnished Attorney Dana Wallace summed up for the accused widow. He bitterly flayed Gray and said the case was one of "Henry Judd Gray and the State of New York" against his client.

During her own lawyer's summation Mrs. Snyder began to cry and the crowd in the courtroom laughed, creating their necks as if to enjoy her predicament.

Attorney Wallace turned upon the crowd and shouted that the persons who had laughed were either subjects for contempt than any defendant.

When Atty. Wallace had finished District Attorney Norcross closed for the State, holding both defendants equally responsible for the crime.

Judge Scudder then charged the jury. At his conclusion the case was placed in the jury's hands.

Motion for a mistrial made at opening of today's session were denied by the court. The closing arguments were begun immediately after the moving promises were over.

In his summation Attorney Millard flayed Mrs. Snyder for a "poisoned serpent" who drew Henry Judd Gray into her glittering coils so that he could not escape.

"I am going to plead to you," Millard began in his address to the jury. "Just as I know Judd Gray was my boy, because I believe in him."

He then outlined Gray's home background during his youth, the care his mother gave him, his church affiliations. He pictured the bright future which loomed before Gray as he became a success in business, married and had a daughter.

"Then, suddenly," he said, "in 1925 a sinister, fascinating, unscrupulous woman came across his path. What a catastrophe that those two have met!"

"I would not liken any woman's name if I could help, but you must have the truth. That woman, like a poisonous serpent, drew Judd Gray into her glittering coils and there was no escape."

Millard said that Gray turned to the stimulation of whiskey because he was hopelessly enmeshed in her coils of love.

"And while he was under the influence of drink," he said, "she inserted into his weakened mind her deadly, her determination to kill her husband."

At Millard's plea, Gray sat behind him in silent pose, listening intently, and Mrs. Snyder looked down at her feet.

CHARGES JURY

After the defense and prosecution have made their last pleas Justice Scudder will charge the jurors.

12 INDICTED IN RUM RING ON CAPE COD

An ex-chief of Police, a former Federal prohibition agent, a Cape Cod innkeeper, and a real estate operator are among 12 men secretly indicted by a Federal grand jury in connection with alleged huge bootlegging and smuggling activities on Cape Cod.

Among the 12 indicted are ex-Chief Nelson Cressney, of Hyannis; former Federal agent James Gilson, until recently a resident of Tanglewood; Arthur Main, of Modford and Hyannis; Walter Nicksen, Charles Clarke of Barnstable Bay, and Francis McCall, Morris Phinney and Louis Aronson, Jr., all of Hyannis.

Clarke, Phinney, Main, Nicksen and McCall appeared for arraignment and were bailed in $2,500 bail each by Judge Horton, after they pleaded not guilty.

"A necessary corollary to the pardon is the impeachment and removal from office of Judge Thayer," said the 61 professors.

The Harvard faculty, which numbered 61, passed a resolution, passed unanimously, expressing confidence in him to carry out his constitutional duty in the case.

SOMETIMES MILES.

"The most admirable judicial system sometimes slips, or seems to slip," said the professors of the university law teachers. "It is such that shakes confidence, and when confidence is shaken, it is shaken not in the single instance only, but in the structure as a whole."

"The surest foundation of faith in any system of justice lies in its capacity to deal with the occasional inevitable case in which a reasonably widespread doubt arises whether justice may not have failed of accomplishment. The established machinery of justice has provided for executive discretion in such cases."

MUST BE WATCHED.

Professor MacKinnon in his letter wrote:

"This case I think offers one of the rare occasions on which the people of a community must take pains to determine whether or not the courts have done their work honestly and intelligently."

Besides Prof. MacKinnon and President Chase Frank, several other University of Wisconsin professors were letters to the defense committee, all in favor of an impartial review of the case.

Baptist ministers, in meeting at Chapman Hall, made it plain today that a resolution sent to Governor Fuller and asking an investigation of the case was not passed unanimously.

A school board New York high school, Earl Greenberg, urged a new trial in a letter to the Governor.

The Dante Club of West Haverhill urged an investigation and a Civil War veteran, H. M. Springer of Milwaukee, Wis., asked clemency for the condemned pair.

HOLD COURT IN HOSPITAL TO HEAR VICTIM

A Midland Superior Court session was held in Cambridge Hotel today in order that Thomas E. Rafferty of Brighton might tell, before judges, jurors and other court officials crowded into a small room, the story of a stabbing which has confined him in the hospital since Dec. 12.

Attended by a nurse who brought him water several times during his trial, Rafferty accused Charles Carlen of Bartlett street, Winthrop, the defendant, of stabbing him in the back after a quarrel in a Cambridge house.

His story involved two girls, one of whom, Mrs. Mona Hall, tried unsuccessfully to stop the fight between Carlen and Rafferty which was the origin of a quarrel over money. Rafferty, who said he had been drinking, was taken to the Cambridge apartment by a taxi driver he finally got back to.

Judge David Dillon transferred the court to the hospital when Dr. Kullback testified Rafferty would be unable to leave for a long time. Buses carried all participants to the hospital and Clerk Fred C. Bane, drawing a fist over a gash, formally established the court there.

Auto Catches Boy by Sweater; Dragged to Death; Driver Held

Lawrence, May 9 (A.P.)—John J. Murphy of No. 45 Ambush street, Everett, driver of the automobile which dragged Ernest H. Cook, seventeen, of Melrose to his death in one of the most peculiar accidents on record, was held in $2,500 bonds on a charge of manslaughter in Melrose Police Court today. After pleading not guilty, Murphy's case was continued until May 15 pending the inquest.

Cook was walking along the boulevard between Lawrence and Lowell when his sweater caught in the door handle of the Murphy car and he was crushed to death between the mud guard and the wheel of the machine.

NO PROFIT IN LIGHTS FOR HARVARD

The Cambridge Electric Light Company makes no money on one of its large customers, Harvard University.

Edward Cheney, consultant of the company, made this admission today while testifying at a continued rate reduction hearing before the State commission on public utilities.

Another customer that brings nothing into the coffers of the company, he said, is the town of Belmont, which sells current bought from the Cambridge plant at a lower rate than the Cambridge company charges its own customers.

Cheney estimated the replacement value of the property of the Cambridge company at $1,050,000. He claimed the operating efficiency of the company was about 100 per cent.

Most of the property, he claimed, was installed within the last five or six years, when building costs were high.

He also contended the replacement values were gotten at by following "the rule of reason" and were kept as low as possible.

SCHOOLS OF FRANKLIN UNION ARE RUN AT LOSS

Franklin Union's day and night schools in Boston were conducted at a loss of $17,918.67 during the year ending April 1, according to the annual report to the Franklin Foundation submitted by Director Walter R. Russell.

The report shows the Union was operated during the year at a cost of $107,488.12, and that income from all sources was $89,569.45.

The day courses, only recently inaugurated, had 49 students during the year, while there were 2,085 enrolled in the night courses.

The report also shows practically every business house in Greater Boston has among its employees some who are enrolled in the Union.

MILES CHEVIE, No. 64 Dudley street, Roxbury, at Harley Hospital, critical burns from exploding gas.

MRS. ANNIE DONAHUE, No. 672 East 2nd street, South Boston, burned about.

The explosion occurred in the Salsburg Rubber Company plant on the lower floor of the two-story building. Flaming gasoline splattered in all directions and as terror-stricken employees rushed for the exits a second explosion rocked the building.

Windows were blown out, men and women were tossed about like chips and on the second floor, occupied by the Harrison Manufacturing Company a half dozen machines were torn from their places and toppled over on the fleeing employees.

Scores of telephone calls were sent in by persons near the scene. Fire department and police were notified and a half dozen ambulances rushed to the plant.

Private cars were commandeered and when the first victims were brought out they were rushed to the hospital.

The thirty-five employees in the Harrison Manufacturing Company were all slightly injured. In the end rush for the exits, one was a little short of a miracle prevented many from being trampled.

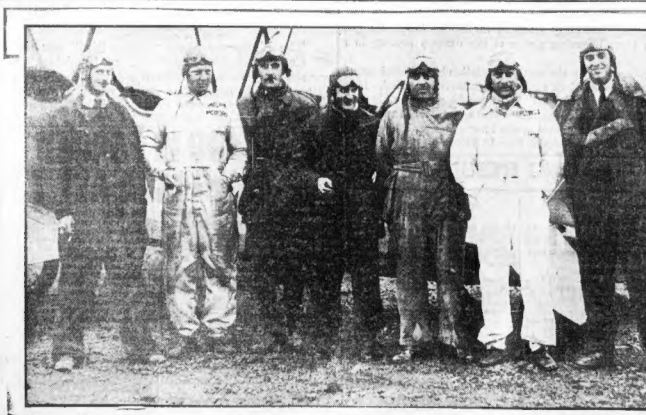

District Chief Murray arrived with the first fire engines. His men immediately searched the building in disaster victims who might have been overlooked. Others named a hose line and the blast was quickly brought under control.

JUDD PURGED HIS SOUL TO MY SOLACE,' CRIES WIFE

WHERE BLAST OF GASOLINE BLEW 6 INTO HOSPITAL

GREEN SAYS CHILD LABOR IS 'CURSE OF CIVILIZATION'

NIGHTMARE SHE CALLS IT, AS TEARS FLOW

Newark, N. J., May 9 (A.P.)—Mrs. Henry Judd Gray, in an interview today with the Newark Evening News, declared she was relieved by her husband's confession on the witness stand and said: "Judd has purged his soul; that gives me my great solace."

"Oh, this is all a nightmare," she sighed as she sought to hold back more of the tears that have swelled her cheeks.

"But Judd's straight-forward and manly confession showed that he is repentant, and proved him to be the man in whom I had implicit faith. His insistence upon telling the truth revealed his true character and convinced me that his trait of profound sympathy with everybody endeared him in the clutch of the wretch of a woman responsible for his downfall."

ONLY SYMPATHIZER.

"This Snyder woman has said Judd is the only one who sympathized with her. It was like Judd," Mrs. Gray said who has done everything she could for her husband. She is financing his defense. "I couldn't sit in at his trial," she protested. "I wasn't capable of it mentally. I have done everything possible in a financial way for Judd. It will mean a tremendous sacrifice to me."

"In letters to me he has intimated that I alone received his true love. I must believe that, for my whole life was devoted to make his home all that a wife could."

HER CONSOLATION.

"What little consolation I have had in the dark weeks that have intervened since this blow, has come from the assurance of my friends and Judd that our home afforded everything that is worth-while in this life. Judd Gray had religion. The truthfulness of that was evidenced by what he did on the witness stand."

Mrs. Gray has succeeded so far in controlling from their daughter, Jane, ten, the facts about her father. Mention of Jane's name infuriated Mrs. Gray's grief.

Steamer Floated
New Bedford, May 9 (A.P.)—The Steamer Anthony O'Day, known as the Nathan, which sailed January 20, was floated by Colonel O. A. Gilbert of Boston, who purchased her after she went aground, and was towed here by the tug Colonel and Power of Boston.

A. F. OF L. CHIEF ASKS UNIFORM WELFARE LAW

Washington, May 9 (C.P.)—Legislation prohibiting employment of children in industrial establishments has served to protect their health, morals and physical well-being, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address before the American Child Health Association today, but a uniform child welfare law is needed to insure the security of the future republic.

"The nation cannot possess healthy children, in a full and complete degree," he said, "and at the same time permit industry to employ children. We cannot have child health and child labor simultaneously."

CURSE TO CIVILIZATION.

"The employment of children in industry is a curse to civilization. It is incompatible with child welfare and is a violation of moral and physical laws. We must surrender one or the other, children's health or children's labor. Which shall it be? Child labor is a national problem requiring the application of a national solution. It should be dealt with through the enactment of constitutional authority conferred upon the Congress of the United States."

LIVING WAGE ESSENTIAL.

Declaring that poverty was a primary cause for ill-health among children, Green added: "In searching for a remedy for poverty we must first definitely decide to face existing facts and discontinue support of a study of the basic causes which produce it. For instance, the breadwinner must be accorded an opportunity to work and earn a wage sufficiently high to provide adequate food and clothing for his dependent children. This involves a study and understanding of industrial and economic facts with reference to family needs, the family budget, adequate income and the problem of seasonal and intermittent employment, as well as unemployment."

ARRESTED, THREE SAY THEY'RE HARVARD BOYS

Three youths, claiming to be Harvard students, were among the 11 arrested in the Metropolitan police on drinks at Revere Beach. It was revealed in Chelsea district court today. The three youths, William J. McCall, Richard Wallace and Thomas J. Moore, all gave Western addresses and paid fines.

TOT ARRIVES ON WESTPHALIA TO MEET DAD

A chubby fraulein, little Tot Dietel, sixteen months old, today looked out on America with big wondering eyes the same that will greet her daddy for the first time after a 3,500-mile trip.

Youngest passenger aboard the Hamburg-American steamship Westphalia, she joined the trip like a veteran, according to her mother, Mrs. Clara Dietel of Elmstedt, Germany.

The tot's father is at Teanick, N. J., where he has been employed since his migration from Elmstedt two years ago.

The Westphalia docked at Commonwealth Pier with a large passenger list from Hamburg and Queenstown.

Little Clara and Martha Weyer, 10 and 9 respectively, were among the passengers, traveling with their mother from Berlin. The children are daughters of a New York newspaperman and have spent six years in the German city, attending school.

From far off Cape Town, Africa, Mrs. Elizabeth Vise completed her sea trip here on a return trip to her husband at Chicago. Mrs. Vise, native of Cape Town, returned to her home for a visit shortly after her marriage in the Windy City a year ago.

Another fraulein aboard, bent on trying her fortune in America, was Miss Sylvia Trubert of Berlin, visiting this country for the first time. She will visit friends at Baltimore before starting her quest for fame. Many of the Bostonians embarked at Queenstown, leaving the Irish port on return trips from early vacations.

POLICE TRAP 3 WHO BEAT UP INSPECTOR

A Boston police inspector was today and beaten early today in Brighton by three assailants, who were captured after one, police said, tried to dive through the window of a street car in which he was trapped. Another of the trio was captured as he was telephoning the police for information concerning his alleged pole.

Inspector Thomas F. Joyce, attached to the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, was the victim of the attack. He lost his gun in the rough-and-tumble fight incident in the holdup. Efforts to find the weapons later were unavailing.

The following men are under arrest at Station H: George F. Smith, 27, of Brookline street; Paul R. Johnson, 24, of Goodmouth street; and Wilfred Young, 23, of Brooks street, all of Brighton.

According to the police, Joyce had just left the home of Inspector John McCarthy, also of the B. C. I., at No. 1847 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, where he had said he reports to the memory of Inspector McCarthy's father, who died a few days ago.

A short distance from the McCarthy home, it is alleged, the three men later arrested, stopped him. As he prepared to fight, the trio began to batter him.

The men were arraigned at Brighton court before Judge Connolly today, charged with attempted highway robbery. They asked for a continuance of the case and Inspector Joyce asked that the court fix a heavy bail in view of the serious nature of the charges. Bail was fixed at $5,000 and the case will be heard next Saturday.

ORCHESTRA OF LINCOLN HOUSE IN CONCERT

A good-sized audience heard the concert of the Lincoln House Orchestra at Jordan Hall yesterday afternoon. Conducted by Jacques Hoffman, this group of amateur musicians gave considerable pleasure in a program of French and German music. Wagner was represented with two pieces, Brahms, Mozart, Saint-Saens, Debussy, Albeniz, Ziehrer and Sandberg with one each.

In the first movement of Mozart's symphony, concertists for violin and viola, Edward Siegel and Albert H. were the respective solo parts. The concert was open to the public without charge.

SEA'S MONSTER "WHITE BIRD" FROM THOUSANDS OF EYES

SHIPS AND LAKE KEEP LONG VIGIL FOR FRENCH FLIERS

Captain Nungesser and Coli, successfully pursue the remaining thousand miles of their course over the misty Atlantic, they should reach their goal of the Paris-New York flight about 8 o'clock tonight (eastern daylight time).

Grave apprehensions were expressed through hopes were generally maintained that the aviators would be able to complete a successful flight, even though their gasoline supply was thought to be near exhaustion. It forced them to the plane, without its landing gear, could keep aloft for 24 hours.

Earlier in the day a report received by the French Cable Co. stated that the radio operator at St. Pierre, Miquelon, had received word that Nungesser had been sighted over Newfoundland. This report added confirmation from any source.

FOG HINDERS THE STORY.

The Hava Agency in New York advised its home office in Paris that it had a definite report from St. Pierre, Miquelon, that the "White Bird" had been sighted over the island at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The New York Times shortly after 11 o'clock noted that the Nungesser plane had not been sighted over the island up to 9 o'clock, Atlantic daylight time.

The broad reaches of the eastern Atlantic still hold within their grasp the hopes of the French aviators. The weather of the morning was clear, but the fog was so dense that the aviators were unable to see the land. The weather of the morning was clear, but the fog was so dense that the aviators were unable to see the land.

SEARCHLIGHTS ON.

Aviators at Mitchell Field said that under the weather conditions now obtaining, if Captain Nungesser could make a landing in New York he would have performed a miracle. It would be greater than that of crossing the Atlantic in a dirigible.

Searchlights were turned on during the day at Mitchell Field to aid the aviators. The searchlights were turned on during the day at Mitchell Field to aid the aviators.

Plan Great Welcome When "White Bird" Alights in N. Y. New York, May 9 (A.P.)—The first definite sighting of the plane since it left New York at 11:30 a. m. yesterday, New York Times, when it was seen to turn north as it put out to sea. There were unconfirmed reports that the plane had been sighted during the day, off Ireland and also at an unconfirmed location by a British observer.

Radio stations remained "on the air" continuously throughout the day in hope of receiving word from some passing liner that the plane had been sighted. Visibility was bad during the night.

The plane carried no wireless, but has a small electric light underneath.

NUNGESSER 'A TARGET'

SEVENTEEN BULLETS HIT HIM Few men have suffered as many wounds as Captain Nungesser and lived to tell the tale. He was shot no fewer than seventeen times. His body is a framework of plates. His wounds are enumerated as follows: Two elbow joints patched with platinum; disk of platinum in top of his head; right ankle made of platinum; in both legs are four platinum patches; the remainder of the seventeen are in his torso.

Death Stalks Rivals in Daring Ocean Flight

New York, May 9 (A.P.)—The hope of the "White Bird" plane to make the first trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris, France, is now a matter of life and death.

Four expeditions had been formed in this country to make the trans-Atlantic flight. The first expedition, led by Captain Nungesser, was the most successful.

AVIATORS SEEK LIVES. Another expedition that is nearing completion for a trans-Atlantic flight is the one led by Captain Nungesser.

Wire and radio reports, later to be denied, gave through the ether to Boston and New England stations today, giving word that the Nungesser-Coli transatlantic flight had been sighted, winging its way through mist and rain toward the land.

REPAIRS ARE DENIED. Previously radio waves had carried word from an "unnamed steamer" that the big white French plane had been sighted south of the Boston Navy Yard where the supposed ship was under repair.

pick up word of the two fliers, but every query of this fashion was in vain. Nothing had been seen or heard of the big plane.

THEY PLAY ON HUNT. Pilot R. F. Billings of the Boston Airport Corporation had the watchful eyes of commercial fliers of America going out to meet the two commercial fliers of France.

According to the schedule of Coli, the observer, the transatlantic plane should be in the vicinity of Cape Ann somewhere between 10 a. m. and 1 p. m. today.

A seagull from the Aquarium had been seen flying over the harbor, and it was reported that there should be many of the harbor craft to be seen.

HUB MAN SCANS THE SKIES FOR 'GAMEST' FLIER

By Associated Press.

It gameness has anything to do with his success Captain Charles Nungesser will not let his White Bird fly.

New York wire, in the opinion of one American army flyer at the Boston airport who has been scanning the skies more closely and especially than any other aviator in New England.

He is Captain Christopher W. Ford, former member of the Lafayette Escadrille and now of the United States army air corps, attached to First Corps headquarters here.

Ford shot down two German planes during the war and was himself shot down behind the German lines in 1918. Much of his flying was done from the same field from which Nungesser set out on his exploits.

The French captain, Ford calls the "gamest" flier he has ever met and the American believes if there is any chance of the Nungesser-Collins finding its way safely to port Nungesser will succeed.

Although the army pilots were flying little today they were increasingly pessimistic as the hours passed without word. Some of them doubted the possibility of Nungesser's fuel holding out long enough for him to reach New York.

They believed he could land his plane safely almost anywhere along the New England coast, although there are only two important air fields, the Boston air port used by the army, the National guard and for commercial purposes, and the navy field at Squantum.

BLAME FIGHTING BOARDS FOR PRINCETON TROUBLES

Philadelphia, May 9 (A.P.)—Blame for the "divisions and hostilities" that have developed among the faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary during recent years, was today placed upon the existence of two distinct governing boards, each antagonistic to the other, in the finding of the special committee appointed by the Presbyterian General Assembly at Baltimore last June, to investigate conditions at Princeton.

The report will be submitted to the general assembly at the meeting in San Francisco, May 24 June 1 in Philadelphia.

The special committee, in its report, recommends that the assembly appoint a committee of men thoroughly learned in the law of the Presbyterian Church to establish a single governing board.

CHICAGO STORE COLLAPSES

Chicago, May 9 (A.P.)—Nearly 100 customers and employees were injured to have escaped unhurt today when the Louis department store, a three-story structure at 1031-1033 West Chicago avenue, collapsed in a mass of ruins.

Louis Goldblatt, proprietor, declared that ten minutes before the building crumpled with a rumbling crash, a scolded wall had given warning and he sounded the alarm, getting most of all the people to the street in safety.

Mrs. Max McGinnis, a clerk, was hurled from the fourth story and badly injured. She was taken to a hospital.

Walls fell in and the entire building was smashed to a heap of ruins. Many persons were at first believed to have been trapped and killed or injured, but after an hour of digging at the ruins neither dead nor injured were found, and the authorities then accepted Goldblatt's belief that virtually all had escaped.

Killed by B. & M. Express

Worcester, May 9 (A.P.)—Joseph E. Root of Manchester, N. H. took on a Boston & Maine Railroad work train, died today in City hospital from a fractured skull and the loss of his right foot, suffered Saturday when he was struck by the New Harbor express.

State Investigators Enact 10,000 New Laws in Year

New York, May 9.—The legislative grid this year is estimated at 10,000 new laws, resulting from 40,000 bills introduced in the Legislatures of 41 states.

The estimate is made by the National Industrial Council.

TRY TO DELETE CHAPLIN CASE

Los Angeles, May 9 (A.P.)—Fame in the 48-page divorce complaint of Lita Grey Chaplin against her husband, Charles Spencer Chaplin, was target of attorneys for the wealthy comedian today as they sought a court order to blot the very allegations from the case.

The order is asked particularly against that portion of the complaint charging him with improper association with "five prominent motion picture actresses." Thus far the names of the actresses have not been revealed, and if such a motion is granted, no testimony concerning the allegations can be introduced.

GIRL IN COURT WITH FACE CUT

Ida Maselli, nineteen, North Boston street, North End, appeared in Municipal court today with both eyes swollen shut, her nose broken and a gash in her face.

The distressed girl appeared to testify against Lena Thompson, thirty-five, of the same address, whom Ida accused of causing her injuries.

According to the girl's story, her father and the older Thompson were having an argument in the hallway. She went to summon her father into the apartment when Lena, according to her story, dropped a pan from several flights up and the pan struck Lena on the face.

The case was postponed for a week to permit an officer to testify.

The Deceptory Club of America, Boston section, will hold its monthly meeting and dinner at the University Club tomorrow evening. The speakers will be Colonel Percy A. Guibere and Ernest Root. They will debate on the question of "Liquor vs. Prohibition."

THREE ESCAPE FROM DEVENS

Chen Devens, May 9.—Three prisoners, number of the 11th Infantry, escaped from the guard house at the camp today and are at large.

The prisoners tore out a board partition between their cell room and the adjacent cell and then broke the glass from an unbarred window and jumped to the ground, a distance of ten feet.

Five other prisoners who were in the cell through which the escaped prisoners passed refused to join them in their flight.

The escape was discovered at the morning roll call and a general alarm was immediately sent throughout New England by Lieutenant J. M. Plunkett.

One of the prisoners, Louis Eno, twenty-two, whose home is at Westfield, was awaiting trial on a charge of having aided another prisoner to escape and with the burglary of a revolver as well as desertion.

The two who fled with Eno were Peter Stupel, twenty-one, whose home is at Windsor Locks, Conn., and Edward H. Grenier, twenty-three, whose home is believed to be in Springfield.

Your police identified, perhaps the same three listed in Classifieds, 9, 10 and 11.

Air Ace's Divorced Wife Hopes He Will Succeed

Paris, May 9.—I hope Charles succeeds. He has my best wishes," declared the divorced wife of Captain Nungesser. She was the former Consuela Hainmayer of New York.

The report that Mrs. Nungesser and the French ace were made up was started lately when she on several occasions visited Villa Comblay where Nungesser's airplane was prepared for the flight.

"There is no truth in the story that we shall renounce," her romance is over."

SHOTS FIRED AT PAIR IN SOMERVILLE CHASE

Shots were fired in a chase in which Patrolman Johnston and Lacey of Somerville blocked an attempt to loot the senior high school on Highland avenue.

Two youths who were implicated got away but the police have a lead and a cap as clues.

Patrolman Lacey discharged his revolver at one of the pair as they fled.

SAFE-BREAKERS GET $2000 LOOT

Safe breakers who have been reaping a rich harvest throughout Greater Boston for some weeks past made another heavy haul today in the drug store of Henry H. Huggan at No. 115 Mount Vernon street.

The thieves tore open the safe and secured $2,000 in currency.

Entrance to the drug store was gained through the cellar, the thieves breaking into the basement of an adjoining building and from there where they could work undisturbed forced their way into the drug store basement.

The combination was bunnies off the safe and the treasure was then forced, apparently with a crowbar, when it was recognized at 7 a. m. Fingerprint experts of the police department are endeavoring to find evidence.

In Charlestown thieves forced their way into the office of the Metropolitan Sales Corporation at No. 604 Main street. They secured $100 in cash, a revolver and a gold watch.

The thieves climbed to the roof of the building and dropped through a skylight. The bundles of all three safes were knocked off and wire and to turn the combination. The thieves left some fingerprints, which have been photographed by the police.

THREE HELD AS 'CAPTIVE' GIRL ESCAPES

The story of a thirteen-year-old Vermont girl, who claimed she was abducted by a multi-aged woman, taken to a house in the West End and attacked by two men and to the arrest today of the woman and men.

The woman who accuses of abduction her late Florence Robinson, thirty-eight, of Main street, Charlestown. The men are George Lacey of Charlestown avenue, West End, and James Kinnear, whose address is unknown. The trio were taken in a rooming house in Poplar street, West End, the same house where the Vermont girl claims she was taken.

The girl came to Boston four weeks ago to look for work. She made her home with friends in Hartford street, Charlestown. The Robinson woman was acquainted with the people with whom the girl was staying.

The girl, according to her story, was taken by the Robinson woman to the West End house Saturday afternoon. She was given wine and other intoxicants, she said. She was held a prisoner in the house Saturday night, but on Sunday she managed to make her escape.

She was taken to the Robinson woman's home in the West End, where she was held for several days. Later she was taken to Boston and was taken to the West End house, where she was held for several days. Later she was taken to Boston and was taken to the West End house, where she was held for several days.

Martha Lee Talks To Housewives

Splendid Recipe for Ice Cream

If you've already visited the bigger, better Martha Lee Kitchen—and we hope you have—you know just how delicious is the ice cream kept always "on tap" and you probably have tried the easy recipe at home many times.

Although our visitors can literally be counted in the thousands since the Martha Lee Kitchen opened, there are of course still many, many good reader friends whom we have not as yet had the pleasure of welcoming.

For these, I'm passing along today the recipe for our favorite ice cream. It was originally intended for an electric refrigerator, but can be packed in the family freezer or in a tightly covered mould and set in ice and salt.

For variations, marshmallow cherries, pineapple or peaches can be substituted for the strawberries.

For a bit more elaborate dessert, the strawberry cream may be placed on a thin slice of sponge cake, topped with whipped cream and crushed strawberries mixed with sugar.

Or it may be served as a banana split—my special weakness. I often wonder why these splits are not served more frequently for Sunday dinner desserts? They seem so much more festive than plain ice cream.

I simply cut in halves, lengthwise, a thoroughly ripe banana—the kind that come carefully packed, six in a box—are always reliable—and place the halves side by side on an attractive serving plate.

A good ripe tablespoon of ice cream is placed at each end of the banana, and topped with a few crushed walnuts or pecans. Chilled fruit syrup is poured over all. Yum, Yum!

Strawberry Cream—One-half cup sugar, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon cornstarch, one teaspoon gelatin, one teaspoon vanilla, three cups strawberries, one pint cream, one-quarter pound marshmallows, cut in quarters, one box of strawberries, crushed.

Soak milk and add sugar and cornstarch, mixed together. Cook until thick. Add gelatin which has been dissolved in cold water. Then put in refrigerator until cool.

Strawberry juice, marshmallows and strawberries and whipped cream. Place in a tray and freeze for three or four hours.

When may we expect you to drop into the Martha Lee Kitchen to sample this? Soon, we hope! Don't forget, either, that there are two demonstrations daily at 11 A. M. and 2 P. M., of some new and interesting dish. We'll be looking for you.

TO PREVENT A DOOR from creaking, rub a little soap or vasoline on the hinges. If it sticks, rub a bar of soap over the edges.

TO REMOVE A RING or stain left after using a cleaning fluid, let it dry, then hold it over the steam of a kettle until it vanishes.

Nut Cream Cake Rule

If you'd like to taste as delicious a piece of cake as you've ever put in your mouth, do try this recipe for nut cream cake. Made with cake flour, it has a texture like velvet and a flavor wholly different.

NUT CREAM CAKE—All measurements level. 3 egg yolks, 1 cup cold water, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup rind of lemon or ½ cup lemon extract, 1 cup cake flour, ½ cup oil, 1 cup water, 1 cup cake flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 3 egg whites.

Use a large, strong Dover egg beater; beat egg yolks; then beat in each ingredient, one after another, in order given, adding baking powder and salt with last cup of flour.

Fold in egg whites beaten very light, using a wooden spoon and take in two glasses, piped layer upon a 350 degrees Fahrenheit for about 20 minutes.

Remove from pan while hot; when cold, put together with nut cream filling. (The two measures of water and cake flour are correct—they should be added in order mentioned.)

NUT CREAM FILLING—1 cup sugar, 1 cup cake flour, 1½ cups water, 1 cup pecans, 2 eggs, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 cup lemon extract.

Stir dry ingredients and beaten eggs in pan over the scalded milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture is thickened, then cook for 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Remove from fire, cool and to one-half of filling, add 1½ cup chopped pecans and mix.

Place nut filling between layers of cake filling on top. Garnish or serve with whipped cream and cherries.

This cream filling, which should be thoroughly cooled—10 minutes after thickening—may be turned into a Boston cream pie filling by flavoring it with two measures of melted bitter chocolate instead of the lemon, vanilla and chopped nuts.

How to Make Mashed Potato Bran Bread

Take 1 yeast cake, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1½ cups mashed potatoes, 2 cups lukewarm water, 1½ cups bran, 4 cups bread flour for more.

Crumble the yeast cake into the bowl, add the water, then all the other ingredients except the flour. Stir in flour carefully, stirring until the mixture can be kneaded.

Knead until smooth. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Punch down the dough and let it rise again, shape into a loaf, put into a greased bread pan, let rise, then bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 45 minutes.

TO GET RID OF MICE—Mix equal parts of the south of oil or kerosene and a little placed around their haunts on a scale of cotton will keep them away. Cook for other quarters. Plain pepper is also excellent.

How Mrs. Taylor SAVED her sister's tea room furnishings with Chipso

MRS. Evelyn Taylor of Pavilion Avenue, Providence, has a sister who owns one of the most exclusive tea rooms on the Mohawk Trail.

"In spite of the fact that I have used Chipso since it came on the market," writes Mrs. Taylor in her prize-winning Chipso letter, "I could not convince my sister that she could use it every day to advantage."

"At the close of each season she took down her over-drapes and slip-covers. Two years ago she said, 'Do I have to buy new furnishings every year?' 'No, use Chipso,' I said."

"She smiled. 'If you can convince me that it will do the work I shall use it as long as it is on the market.' So I took her over-drapes, slip-covers and beautiful linen dollies—and laundered them with Chipso. The results were marvelous. They looked like new."

"She is now the proud owner of a beautiful Colonial farmhouse located among the hills. It is furnished with antiques, costly china, pewter and bric-a-brac. All are washed in Chipso. She does not hesitate to praise Chipso whenever she can. It is used extensively in her dairy to wash all milk utensils, including milk bottles. Great credit is due to the wonderfully cleansing suds of Chipso."

"May I add that Chipso was rightly named, for it certainly chips off the hard rubbing on dirty clothes. It makes dishwashing a pleasure, leaving the hands soft and white."

Mrs. Taylor's grocery is The Mayflower Store on Rugby Street, Providence.

You couldn't imagine Mrs. Taylor attempting those colored fabrics unless Chipso's white flakes were safe. You can soak fast colors just like the rest of the family wash. If the color is not fast, squeeze Chipso suds through the fabric until clean, and rinse. With the family wash you can soak clothes clean in twenty minutes, but they're just as safe if you leave them over-night.

Mrs. Taylor's sister escapes the hard part of dishwashing with Chipso. Try soaking the grease off dishes and pans in Chipso suds. Your own dishwashing will be one-third quicker! The large box of Chipso does 4 to 6 washings—or your dishwashing for a month!

GOLDSTEIN TAKES ON BROWN

Flyweights Top Fighting Card at Argonne A. A. Show This Evening

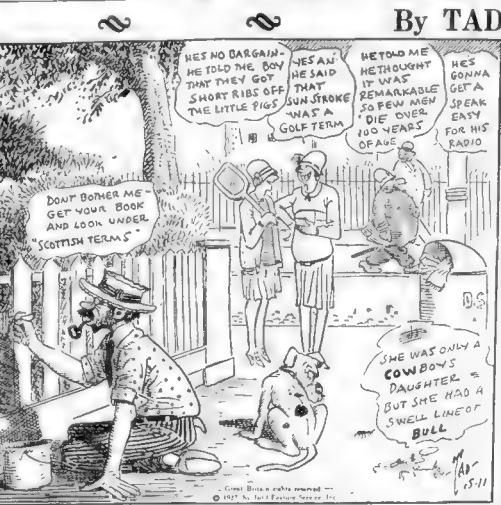

Boston will step back on the athletic map tonight when the Argonne A. A. fires a few fireworks at Mechanics Building. Sergeant Eddie Mark has Newell Brown of the Pacific Coast paired with Harry Goldstein of the West End in the feature ten-round trial.

Brown and Goldstein are two of our best flyweights. In a recent bout here, Goldstein was the victor by a decision. He is now looking for a rematch. Brown is a former champion and is a very tough fighter. The fight is expected to be a very close one.

SUIT TO YOUR MEASURE

I have just purchased a range of fine pencil stripes, as fine worsteds as America produces. I realize the strength of this statement and am open to prove same with samples. If you live a thousand miles from Mitchell The Tailor, 281 Washington St., Boston, store, send a 2c stamp for samples of what I consider the finest worsteds, 14-oz. in weight (which I think the best weight for a suit of clothes), and I will send samples and simple system of self measurement to any part of the United States. Put the samples to any test, and if you can buy fabrics of equal quality under $35 I will be surprised.

Familiarity breeds TRUST

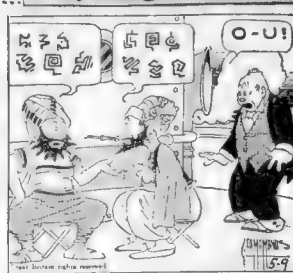

CONTRARY to the old adage, familiarity with some things breeds trust. Advertised products, for instance. The trade-names and firm-names you see regularly in this paper, by reason of their very continuity, kindle familiarity first and then confidence. These are the names that leap to your lips in market-places.

FAMILIARITY of this sort is a thing to be cultivated. The more you know about an advertiser and his wares, the more you are able intelligently to invest the family outlay for the necessities of life. This truth is self-evident.

READ the advertisements in this paper. Read them as carefully as you would read something you had to sign your name to. They will save your shopping time and your shopping dollars. Go into the stores with your mind more than half made up as to what you want and what you will have to pay.

Familiarity with known goods breeds contempt for the unknown. Advertising begets familiarity.

A STORY'S ENDING

By Eudora R. Richardson

[illegible]

Mr. Employer, Mr. Boss, or Mr. Superintendent, do you encourage your men to come to you with their financial difficulties?

In your position you have had more experience than they and your judgment might be just the advice they need.

Of course, you have many problems to meet, but so have your men. Their problems are as important to them as yours are to you and they may be less capable of overcoming them.

Can you tell your men in such a way that they know they can come to you for counsel, treating you to get unbiased opinions as to what is best for them? Can you encourage personal loyalty to your establishment and loyalty means more and better work?

Often the man in trouble cannot go to those with whom he works because a fellow workman is liable to have baffling difficulties of his own, and perhaps of the same background for judgment.

Let your men understand that you are interested in them.

They need what you can give them.
